

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a formulation and a method for production of a material from an epoxy resin and a rheological control agent, which may be processed by means of the techniques 5 for working thermoplastics yet with the capacity to react and form a thermosetting material with good shock-resistant properties.